UNWISE REMARKS OF CHRISTIAN EN-DEAVOR FOLKS IN MONIREAL.

The French All Affame, and, Though the Convention Repudinted the Criticism, a Party of Quarrymen Started to Tenr Down the Tent-Prevented by the Police. MONTREAL, July &-The Christian Endeavor Convention was continued to-day. The juntor rally was held in the American Presbyte: ian Church. Denominational rallies were held in seventeen churches.

The day was eventful because of the incident on the Champ de Mars last night in which some Undeavorers were stoned, and this morning the matter was freely discussed and comtaented on. The Convention's sympathy was at once withdrawn from the delegation which had given rise to the row by attacking Reman Catholies in this Roman Catholic city.

Cathodies in this Roman Cathodie city.

The seed sown by the Rev. Mr. Karmarhar, the film on delegate, and others, in making an attack of Cathodies in resulted in a shower of siones. To day it trought around the tent and difficult where the convention meets a number of cathodie tract distributors, who gave to an who would take them tracts explaining from a Cathodietsin.

When President Clark called the meeting in the drill thall to order this morning he said:

"I have learned only recently that there was a public meeting held outside of the tent, on the champ de Mais, for which this Convention is no way responsible. Some santiments were made and some sentiments aftered for which this Convention is no responsible. This should also be understood that anything said here is the expression simply of the individual who makes intermine to you. This is not a legislative or delicerative lood, and does not necessarily represent the sentiments of this Convention. I sleak for you all when I say that there has seen no intention or desire on the part of this convention to insult any one, to burt any people.

Is that not your sentiment? (Cheers, If

The whole audience rose and cheered.

There was very nearly a riot to-night at the Christian Endeaver Convention, and had it not been for the prompt action of the Montreal police the consequences would probably have been saying.

police the consequences would probably have police the consequences would probably have been serious.

The whole trouble grew out of a speech made by the Rev. Mr. Karmarkar, the Hindoo preacher from India, who, in his address, compared the Roman Catholic religion to idolatry. The speech created a great deal of indignation among the French Canadians, who regard it as an insult to their faith.

As the society repudiated the speech the French papers advised the population to overlook the insult. But the passions of the worst elements of the populace had been aroused and to night several hundred French-Canadian quarrymen carrying the tri-color flag, the banner of the French-Canadians, marched down to the drill half where the Convention was in session.

bunner of the French-Canadians, marched down to the drill hall where the Convention was in session.

A number of the men went to the tent where the overflow meeting was being held and cut flor rope, with the object of nulling down the tent. The police hast received warning of the trechs, and a posse of constables was despatched to the scene. A body of several hundred volunteers in plain clothes, who had heard of the trouble, also hurried to the scene to protect the Endeavocers in case of an attack being made upon them.

When the police arrived the quarrymen had surrounded the drill hall and were waving the friction and singing the Marselliane. The police charged upon them and seizing the tricolor, dispersed the mob. By this time the Convention was over, and the delegates started singing hymns on their way home. The French Canadians hooted them and there was a scene of great excitement.

The volunteers gathered in a body and, singing tied Save the Queen," threatened to make it lively for any Frenchman who molested the delegatos.

SOUTH CAROLINA'S DISPENSARY CASE. IWO KILLED, MIX BADLY INJURED. Judge Hudson's Decision Declaring the Law

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 8.-Judge Hudson's decision in the Darlington dispensary case was brief. He said he would file his reasons later. An injunction was asked for on the ground that the Dispensary law was unconstitutional and that J. B. Floyd, who was appointed dispenser, did not have a majority of freeholder voters upon his petition for appointment. The main point upon which Judge Hudson decided the law unconstitutional is that the decided the law unconstitutional is that the State takes business from individuals and creates a monopoly in it for itself; that prohibitory have are constitutional, but that the Evans bill is not such a law, but on the contrary it is a law for revenue or profit. He also said that the famous Wilson act of Congress does not prohibit a railroad from bringing from without the State liquor to citizens within the State. When the sale of loves is weathirfed by the the State liquor to citizens within the State. When the sale of liquor is problited by the State law a citizen cannot sell it, but it is his property, and railreads can deliver it to him. This opinion on the Wilson act was given parenthetically, and does not bear on the case at issue. Judge Huilson further decided that Floyd's appointment was illegal, as he did not have a majority of freehold voters upon his petition. The ludge, therefore, issued an order restraining the County Board and Mr. Floyd from opening a dispensary until the further order of the Court.

THE INTERCONTINENTAL RAILWAY. Surveys of the Line to South America Completed and a Franthie Boute Found. WASHINGTON, July 8-Considerable secrecy has apparently been thrown around the operations of the intercontinental railway survey authorized by Congress in accordance with the plan adopted by the Pan-American Conference in 1800. There has always been a hot fight in Congress over the appropriation for continuing the work, which has only slipped through in conference between the two Houses. It is now said that the survey has been practically completed. All the surveying parties have returned to Washington, having parties have returned to Washington, having finished their field work. They are now engaged at the headquarters of the Commission in this city working up the data they have secured for the publication of their final reports. This will occupy several months.

This will occupy several months.

The line surveyed runs from the southern boundary of Maxico to the northern boundary of Bolivia, and is 4,000 miles long. It is said that a feasible route has been found for the entire distance with no grade greater than four per cent. It is further said that the engineer who was in charge of the survey through Columbia reports that for many miles the line runs through a mining region so rich that the material dug out for the cuts of the road would contain enough gold and silver to pay for the construction of the road over that section. This may account for the relicence maintained as to the progress of the work.

OUT OF THE NORTH CAME, ETC.

Not a Young Lochisvar but a Boston Reporter to Capture a Southern Girl, ALTANTA, July 8 .- Charles H. Copeland, the Boston reporter who came to Atlanta to wed Miss Futrell, but who was prevented by the police, married her this morning in Danville. Va., and the pair are now on their way to Massachusetts. When Copeland found that he was kept from seeing the girl by the police he was kept from seeing the girl by the police he left ostensibly for Boston, but really for Augusta. Then Miss Futre I fled to join her lover in care of a trusted friend.

A telegram was sent by Copeland stating that his mother was on her deathbed in Boston and that he must go to her side, and asking that Miss Futrell join him at Charlotte, N.C. There she was telegraphed to continue on her way to Danville, Va., where she caught up with her lover at D this morning, and they were married.

The rutrells have disowned the girl, and say they will disinherit her.

No Doubt that She is Mrs. McGtbney, It was announced yesterday that Broker James M. Drake of 57 West Eighty-third street had been satisfied beyond a doubt that his daughter Edith had married young Samuel McGibner, the carpenter of 437 East Eighty-sixth street. Miss McGibner, a sister of the young map, said yesterday that Edith had called at her father's house with her marriage certificate on Friday, and told her parents of the wedding. It is said that the proceedings against her will be dropped.

Fireman William Schooffer and Brakeman terday it seems that on Monday night Mills and O'Brien had a quarrel over the division of some plunder stolen in the Bowery, and that O'Brien drew a Knife and cut Mills. In return he got a slash on the wrist from a knife in Mills's hand. The next day O'Brien was sober and assured Mills that he would never attack him again. Mills didn't put much faith in these promises, and he carried his pisto! with him after that. He told his associates that he would probably have to kill O'Brien some day The Freedom of the City of Loudon Pre-these promises, and he carried his pisto! with him after that. He told his associates that he would probably have to kill O'Brien some day in self-protection.

After O'Brien arrived at the hospital on Priday night he seemed to revive, and, being still under the influence of liquor, he attempted to fight the dectors, insisting that he was all right, and wanted to go home. Yesterday morning he was still conscious, and refused to give the name of the man who shot him, until informed that he could not recover. Then he consented to make an ante-mortem statement to Coroner McKenna. He said that on Friday night he went into the saloon under the Kingston House and met a man there that he had known a short time, but whose name he forgot. Sammy Mills was there, too. O'Brien had a quarrie with the man, and they walked out and were about to fight, when Mills drew a pistol and shot O'Brien in the stomach. He was about to fire apain, but O'Brien turned away and walked up the Bowery toward Bayard street. In the middle of the block he met a policeman and told him that he was shot.

Dr. O. J. Ward, the senior visiting surgeon of the hospital, and Dr. Trimble, the house doctor, decided yesterday not to perform an operation upon O'Brien, as it would only hasten his death. Symptoms of peritonitis had already set in, and Dr. Ward said that the man could only live a few hours longer.

O'Brien has a bad record. Several years ago he shot a man and served four years for it. He shot the man at wice, and started to walk away, but thinking that his victim might not be dead, he turned back and put two more builteds in him. Recently he has stabled and heaten a number of persons on the Bowery, where he was looked upon as about the worst of the dangerous men who frequent it.

Yesterday in the Tombs Police Court James Kennedy and John Coleman of 105 Bowery and Francis Wyburn, alias "Sheenie Annie." of 114 Park row, were detained as witnesses of the shooting. The police have not yet succeeded in arresting Mills or Casey. don. The ceremony of presenting him with

The mill owners on the first day of June notified the men that a reduction of 25 per cent would be made in their wages. The lace weavers struck in a body. The National and Federated Lace Weavers Union of America came to the aid of the strikers, and gave them weekly allowances. The mill owners endeavored to fill the piaces of the union men, and the fight promised to be a long one.

The men submitted to a 7's per cent. reduction. All the non-union men have been discharged and all the old men taken beek. All of the 300 linishers will return to work too.

ROWING IN THE DARK.

Cornell Defeats the University of Pennsyl-

LAKEPARK, Loke Minnetonka, Minn. July 8. The Cornell and Pennsylvania 'varsity eights rowed a four-mile straight-away race to-night, and Cornell won by three lengths. No one saw the race, for to have accomplished this feat, the spectators would have needed to be equipped with an electric search light. The race was scheduled to start at 6 were away. Heavy winds and exceedingly rough water were responsible for the delay.

else laid wagers that the race would be postponed.

Cornell was the favorite, the betting being 5 to 1 on the Ithnea boys. The Quakers took numerous bets, but could not be induced to take anything at even money or short odds.

Finally the crews started. They took the water together and pulled the first mile almost abreast. At the mile stake they were on a lins. Here the Pennsylvania boys let themselves out a little, and during the second mile obtained a lead of about three-quarters of a length.

sent them all over the linish line very close together.

The l'earl lost her rudder on the way back, but her owner, George Pottes pluckly kept on and finished with an oar for tiller.

Thanks to an efficient Regatta Committee composed of C. T. Pierce, F. B. Jones, and W. A. Huffington, there was no hitch in figuring the result, and the winners were announced half an hour after the race was over. Summary: Sanger Too Much for Johnson at Toledo. finish line, leaving Flat Neck buoy on the starboard hand; distance thirteen nautical miles.

For both sloops and cats it was a dead beat to windward to the first mark. The little Pyxle, the new yawl Andax, and the cat Almira all showed up splendidly in this style of going, and heat any number of the big fellows. The fast, open cat Phylis, after finding that the catin cat Almira would probably beat her in the competition for the best classed time over the short course, turned back. The big sloops rounded Matiniceck as follows: Moscasin first, at 2:00:45; Eleanor second, 2:07:45; Kathleen third, 2:09:30, and the Eurybia fourth, at 2:12:35.

The Almira splendidly handled by young Hanan, led the little tellows around the first mark at 2:07:50, followed by the Myrtle, in the order named.

As soon as they rounded they all eased off their sheets a bit, and with the wind on their quarter they made great time to the second mark. Coming home they eased off their sheets still more and set balloon jibs, which sent them all over the finish line very close together.

The l'earl lost her rudder on the way back. In the mean time thousands of spectators who lined the shore or crowded the small craft speculated on the probable time of starting, or tained a lead of about three-quarters of a length.

The steady stroke of the Cornell crew then began to tell, and slowly but aurely they forged shead, and at the third mile Cornell was leading by three lengths. This lead was maintained to the finish.

The finish witnessed one of the most disgraceful sights ever seen at a boat race. The police provisions were inndequate and sall and steam craft, which had collected during the long wait, were anchored directly in the course of the boats. Had not Cornell had a lead she would have never won the race.
